Youth and Local Man Are Victims

Chester Coplan, 12, of Albany loses life in rear of arcade at Kingston Point

Both in Afternoon

Walter Weeks Drowned in Esopus Creek at Glenerie

An Albany boy on an excursion trip to Kingston and a local man on a motor boat trip were drowned on the holiday, bringing the total deaths by drowning in the county to date this season to three.

Walter Weeks, 34, of 197 Downs street, was drowned in the Esopus creek at Glenerie Friday when the motor boat in which he and Merrill M. Peck of 168 Washington avenue, were riding upset and threw both into the water.

Chester Coplan, 12, of 145 Green street, Albany, lost his life while swimming in the water back of the old arcade at Kingston Point Park. He was brought from the water, but too late, after many diving efforts of Thomas Bradley, 15, the son of a M. V. police officer.

Young Coplan and two other Albany boys, Jesse Garrett, 12, 62 Madison avenue, and Matthew Thompson, 12, of 71 Madison avenue, came to the local park on a river boat on a holiday excursion. Local police were notified by the caretaker at the park who said he believed that a boy had drowned. The two other boys and Coplan, according to the police report, had been swimming in the small body of water on the south side of the park.

The two others returned from a swim across the water to learn that their friend was not with them. Others at the park began a search for the youngster and young Bradley began diving in the water to find him.

Second Drowning

The second drowning of the afternoon happened about 5 p. m. at Glenerie Lake Park when Walter Weeks, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weeks of 197 Downs street was thrown into the Esopus creek when a boat on which he was attempting to adjust an outboard motor tipped, throwing Weeks and his companion, Merrill M. Peck of 168 Washington avenue, into the cold water of the creek.

Mr. Weeks at first started to swim to the west bank of the creek but turned and swam back toward the boat. He had succeeded in grasping the boat but was unable to hold on and sunk into the water which at that point is said to be some twenty feet deep.

Just prior to the accident Mr. Weeks and Miss Eleanor L. Shuler of 115 Franklin street, had been in a boat in the vicinity. The motor on the boat of Peck was floundering and Mr. Weeks transferred from his boat to the Peck boat to aid with the motor. Continued on Page Three

Included in the new ministry, sources close to De Gasperi said, are Carlo Sforza, 63-year-old diplomat, author, and foreign minister—a post he held in the outgoing cabinet—and Luigi Einaudi, Governor of the Bank of Italy, who was expected to receive a new cabinet post in which his responsibility would be to balance the Italian budget.

Rienzo to Open U.P.A. Market in Store Now Occupied by Craft

A modern self-service U.P.A. market will be established in the near future in the electrical appliance store of Raymond E. Craft at Broadway and O'Neil street by Chris Rienzo, grocer of 285 East Union street, the latter announced today.

The Rienzo store has operated in the Ponchockie section for 16 years and will be continued there. Mr. Rienzo is currently affiliated with the U.P.A. He has been a member of the organization for 10 years and is on its board of directors.

Renovations at the Craft store are expected to start during the summer, the new owner said. All necessary new fixtures will be added. They will include new lighting and the latest in self-service equipment.

Four New York residents were hospitalized this morning after the car in which they were riding struck a tree in the village of Hurley.

According to Sheriff George C. Smith the injured were Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Emmer and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rifton.

Extent of their injuries could not be ascertained at the Kingston Hospital before The Freeman went to press.

Investigation of the accident was made by Sheriff Smith and two deputies, William Frost and Arthur Smith.

They learned that the automobile went out of control and left highway 209, crashing against the large tree at the right angle turn where Hurley avenue extension connects with the main street in the village.

The Hurley Fire Department was called to extinguish flames that broke out in the car after the collision.

Conner's ambulance removed the injured to the Kingston Hospital where Dr. Frederick Snyder took charge of treating them.

Just before noon, the hospital had no definite report on the extent of their injuries.

Employees of the Conner establishment said that the four injured persons were quite badly shaken from the impact, and that X-rays probably would be necessary to determine the extent of their injuries.

Specific addresses of the men and women in the crash were not obtainable at press time, except that they were New York motorists.

There were two minor accidents reported to the Highland barracks, both involving out of control cars and no personal injuries were reported in either of the accidents.

Congress to Plan For 1949 Budget Far in Advance

Senator Russell of Belief Appropriation Group Should Start on Analysis Now

By JACK BELL

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Senator Russell (D-Ga.) proposed today that Congress get busy at once on the 1949 national budget "so we won't be working in the dark" in attempting to cut government expenditures.

Russell, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, told a reporter he believes the over-all Congressional Budget Committee should begin organizing a staff to make a detailed analysis of departmental needs for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1948.

"We're working in the dark now trying to cut the budget," the Georgia Senator said. "We're like a grand jury because we only get one side of the case—the claims of the government agencies on their needs for funds. It's awfully hard to make any intelligent budget cuts that way."

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said he agrees with Russell that steps should be taken now to put Congress in a position where it will know next January, when the presidential budget is submitted, whether it can be cut and where.

"We need a staff that will give us as much information as is available to the President," he said. "If we had that, we could bring in a budget resolution and pass it on the dot."

This resolution is the product of the over-all Budget Committee set up under the Congressional Reorganization Act. Members of the House and Senate taxing and appropriations committees made up its membership.

Because the joint committee had only a skeleton staff this year, it made no attempt at a detailed investigation of President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year starting next July 1. The Republican majority conceding that its product was little more than a guess, brought in a resolution to pledge a $6,000,000,000 slash.

The House accepted this figure but the Senate balked, agreeing instead on a $4,500,000,000 economy pledge, to which was attached a promise to apply $2,600,000,000 of any government surplus in payment on the national debt. The two chambers have yet to agree on a compromise.

189 Known Dead as Result of Accidents

(By The Associated Press)
The nation entered the second day of the extended Memorial Day week-end holiday with a death toll of at least 189 persons as a result of accidents, with two airplane crashes accounting for more than half the total.

The plane crashes in New York Thursday night and at Port Deposit, Md., yesterday cost the lives of 93 persons, while other violent deaths of miscellaneous causes since Thursday evening boosted the total to 110.

The toll on the highway, normally the heaviest during a holiday week-end, was 53, while 25 persons lost their lives by drowning. The National Safety Council had estimated that 275 persons would be killed in motor mishaps over the three-day period.

Indiana led the nation in traffic fatalities with 10, including six members of a wedding party in a train-auto collision in Lake County. The dead included the bride and groom, the bride's parents and her brother and sister.

In the four-day Memorial Day holiday last year there were 292 violent deaths, including 164 traffic fatalities.

New York had two deaths from traffic accidents, three from drownings and 43 miscellaneous causes.

53 Killed When Transport Crashes in Wooded Ravine

Disaster Climaxes Series of Costly Airplane Crashes Around World

Port Deposit, Md., May 31 (AP)—A four-engine Eastern Airlines transport plunged suddenly from 1,000 feet into a wooded ravine near here last night, killing all 53 aboard in the nation's worst commercial airline disaster.

Eye-witnesses differed on what happened just before the big DC-4 plummeted to the ground at a 45 degree angle.

Several said they heard an explosion and saw the tip-end of the tail section tear away.

Others said the plane was flying along smoothly at about 1,000 feet when the engines suddenly roared thunderously and the big aircraft tumbled over on its back and started falling.

It tore into the wooded hillside, snapping off six and eight-inch trees and burst into flame with a mighty explosion.

Largest single bit of wreckage was not more than 12 feet long, apparently a section just forward of the tail. Debris and dismembered bodies were strewn over an area 20 yards wide and 75 yards long.

By dawn, rescue workers had collected 52 distinguishable bodies but most of them were mutilated beyond recognition.

The wreckage seeking evidence which might establish the cause of the crash.

The disaster climaxed a 48-hour series of costly air crashes around the world.

Only the night before, a United Airlines plane of the same type crashed on takeoff from La Guardia Field in New York and 40 lost their lives.

Eastern Airlines said its plane was carrying 49 passengers, one on a non-stop flight from Newark, N. J., to Miami, Fla.

It came in low over the hills around this northern Maryland community about 6:30 p. m. (E.D.T.), winged over and plummeted into a forest a short distance from the Susquehanna river.

Eye-witnesses at Bainbridge and Port Deposit reported seeing the DC-4 passing over a few minutes before the crash. Although it was flying low, they said, and engines were roaring, the plane did not appear to be in trouble.

Only Two Mishaps In Heavy Traffic During Holiday

Despite a heavy flow of traffic in the city over the holiday, the local police reported only two accidents.

William E. Fischang, Sr., of 53 Harwich street was slightly injured at 10:20 p. m. Friday, when according to the police report, he was forced to swerve to his right as another auto passed and he struck a parked car.

No injuries were reported in the other accident at 9:36 p. m. Friday when an auto operated by Louis M. Henderson of New York, collided with the rear of a car operated by Irving Kanet, 185 Erasmus street, Brooklyn. Both autos were damaged slightly.

Chief of Police Ernest A. Boss, said this morning that traffic which was reported generally heavy throughout the region, was much heavier than last year through the city.

Freak Gust Of Wind Is Blamed

Audrey M. Caswell Was on Way to Meet Her Fiance in Midwest, Stewart Field Man

Parents Unaware

Mr. and Mrs. Caswell at Field, Didn't Know of Crash

New York, May 31 (AP)—Relatives and friends sought today to complete identification of 40 persons killed in the holiday week-end crash of a DC-4 airliner near La Guardia Field, which United Air Lines said probably was caused by a freak gust of wind "of almost unbelievable suddenness."

One Ulster county resident, Miss Audrey M. Caswell, 18, of Wallkill, was included on the list of those who lost their lives. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Caswell of Bona Ventura avenue, who were at the field to bid her farewell as she left for Cleveland.

Miss Caswell intended to meet her fiance, Charles Wagner, an air corps soldier, stationed at Stewart Field, near Newburgh, whose home is at Medina, Ohio.

Three weeks ago, Miss Caswell took a position as a clerk in a Newburgh insurance office. She was a graduate of the Spencerian Business College of that city and of Wallkill High School. Besides her parents, survivors are two brothers, Blair and Clifford, Jr., and a sister, Miss Iris Caswell, all of Wallkill.

At the time of tragedy, Mr. and Mrs. Caswell were still on the field, after saying farewell, but did not know of their daughter's death until they returned home and received a telegram.

The other eight persons on the plane, which crashed and burned before a takeoff for Cleveland Thursday night, remained in hospitals, five of them in critical condition.

J. A. Herlihy, vice-president of operations for United Air Lines, said last night in a statement that the pilot had tried to halt the plane when it failed to lift.

A preliminary Civil Aeronautics Board report also said the pilot attempted to stop the plane, whose crash was the nation's worst commercial airline disaster until last night's crash in Maryland which took 53 lives.

Wind Shift Blamed
"A study of weather conditions prevailed at the time," Herlihy said, "indicates that the probable cause of the accident was a wind shift of almost unbelievable suddenness."

Herlihy said the direction of the takeoff—being attempted as the New York area had thunderstorm clouds, rain and strong wind gusts—was away from a squall.

New Premier

Hungarian Elections Now Will Be Held in September

Budapest, May 31 (AP)—The Hungarian cabinet announced today that Lajos Dimnyos, 46-year-old minister of war, had been chosen Premier to succeed Ferenc Nagy, who resigned two days ago while on vacation in Switzerland.

The cabinet also announced that Istvan Kertesz, recently named minister to Rome, had been appointed to replace Foreign Minister Janos Gyongyosi, whose pro-western views have been opposed by left-wing parties.

It said that new national elections would be held in September. Reports circulated meanwhile that the Communists, having forced Nagy from office, had turned the pressure on President Zoltan Tildy in continuation of what some informants said was a determined drive to turn Hungary into a police state.

Appointment of Dimnyos to the premiership surprised parliamentary circles. Persons close to cabinet members said that up to this morning Imre Oltványi, former president of the National Bank, had been the Communist choice for the post and therefore the most likely candidate.

Young Coplan and two other Albany boys, Jesse Garrett, 12, 62 Madison avenue and Matthew Thompson, 12, of 71 Madison avenue, came to the local park on a river boat on a holiday excursion. The two others returned from the caretaker at the park who said he believed that a boy had been drowned. The two other boys and Coplan, according to the police report, had been swimming in the small body of water on the south side of the park.

The second drowning of the afternoon happened about 5 p. m. at Glenrie Park when Walter Weeks, 34, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weeks of 197 Downs street, was drowned in the Esopus creek when a boat on which he was attempting to adjust an outboard motor tipped, throwing Weeks and his companion, Merrill M. Peck of 168 Washington avenue, into the cold water of the creek.

Mr. Weeks at first started to swim to the west bank of the creek but turned and swam back toward the boat. He had succeeded in grasping the boat but was unable to hold on and sank into the water which at that point is said to be some twenty feet deep.

Just prior to the accident Mr. Weeks and Miss Eleanor L. Shadler of 115 Franklin street, had been in a boat in the vicinity. The motor on the boat of Peck was faltering and Mr. Weeks transferred from his boat to the Peck boat to aid with the motor.

Mrs. Goering in Custody

Augsburg, Germany, May 31 (AP)—Emmy Goering—widow of the former member two Nazis of the Hitler regime—lay stricken with rheumatism in a humble prison hut today, awaiting trial as a member of the Nazi party. In Miesbach, Mrs. Hans Frank, widow of the Nazi governor-general of Poland, also was in custody, awaiting transfer to Augsburg to face trial on the same charges. Dr. Alfred Loritz, Bavarian denazification minister, said he had given orders for the arrest of Mrs. Fritz Sauckel, widow of the Nazi labor boss, and Mrs. Wilhelm Frick, widow of the "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia.

Close Secrecy Envelopes Negotiations Between Lewis and Coal Operators

Washington, May 31 (AP)—Close secrecy today enveloped the contract negotiations of John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators, with only a month to go before the government turns the mines back to the owners.

Both the United Mine Workers' leader and the producers added mystery to their deliberations by discussing nothing but the weather with inquirers.

Nevertheless, a report got out that the Lewis wage increase demand equals 35 cents an hour for the 400,000 soft coal miners.

According to persons in touch with the negotiators, this is made up of a combination of shorter hours, a boost in the $1.18 1/2 hourly pay rate and other benefits.

Despite the holiday, a negotiating session was scheduled yesterday in an ornate $35 suite of a fashionable Washington Hotel.

Only Lewis and U.M.W. Vice President John O'Leary were present for the miners. When they came out they just grinned in reply to questions by newsmen.

Hubert Howard, Illinois strip mine spokesman, and Harry M. Moses, negotiator for U.S. Steel Corporation and other steel companies with soft coal holdings.

Moses, Van Horn, O'Neill and Campbell met later privately, presumably to discuss the hurdle between the two key operators and Lewis.

Reporters were told only that a meeting of the coal negotiating committees of union and operators from the north, midwest, and far west would be held at 10 a. m. (E.D.T.) today. This group represents 15 per cent of the nation's bituminous output.

Southern operators, accounting for the other 25 per cent, will resume negotiations with the union next Tuesday morning. They have refused to negotiate with the remainder of the industry.

189 Known Dead as Result of Accidents

(By The Associated Press)
The nation entered the second day of the extended Memorial Day week-end holiday with a death toll of at least 189 persons as a result of accidents, with two airplane crashes accounting for more than half the total.

The plane crashes in New York Thursday night and at Port Deposit, Md., yesterday cost the lives of 93 persons, while other violent deaths of miscellaneous causes since Thursday evening boosted the total to 110.

The toll on the highway, normally the heaviest during a holiday period, was 53, while 25 persons lost their lives by drowning. The National Safety Council had estimated that 275 persons would be killed in motor mishaps over the three-day period.

Indiana led the nation in traffic fatalities with 10, including six members of a wedding party in a train-auto collision in Lake county. The dead included the bride and groom, the bride's parents and her brother and sister.

In the four-day Memorial Day holiday last year there were 292 violent deaths, including 164 traffic fatalities.

New York had two deaths from traffic accidents, three from drownings and 43 miscellaneous causes.

53 Killed When Transport
Crashes in Wooded Ravine

Port Deposit, Md., May 31 (AP)—A four-engine Eastern Airlines transport plunged suddenly from 1,000 feet into a wooded ravine near here last night, killing all 53 aboard in the nation's worst commercial airline disaster.

Eye-witnesses differed on what happened just before the big DC-4 plummeted to the ground at a 45 degree angle.

Several said they heard an explosion and saw the tip-end of the tail section tear away.

Others said the plane was flying along smoothly at about 1,000 feet when the engines suddenly roared thunderously and the big aircraft turned over on its back and started falling.

Large single bit of wreckage was not more than 12 feet long, apparently a section just forward of the tail. Debris and dismembered bodies were strewn over an area 20 yards wide and 75 yards long.

By dawn, rescue workers had collected 52 distinguishable bodies but most of them were mutilated beyond recognition.

They were taken over trails hacked through the woods to near Bainbridge, Naval Training Station, where investigators this morning started the grim job of trying to establish identifications.

Civil aeronautics inspectors meantime poked through the strewn wreckage seeking evidence which might establish the cause of the crash.

The disaster climaxed a 48-hour series of costly air crashes around the world.

Only the night before, a United Airlines plane of the wooden type crashed on takeoff from La Guardia Field in New York and 40 lost their lives.

Eastern Airlines said its plane was carrying 49 passengers, one on a non-stop flight from Newark, N. J., to Miami, Fla.

It came in low over the hills around this northern Maryland community about 6:30 p. m. (E.D.T.), winged over and plummeted into a forest a short distance from the Susquehanna river.

Eye-witnesses at Bainbridge and Port Deposit reported seeing the DC-4 passing over a few minutes before the crash. Although it was flying low, they said, and engines were roaring, the plane did not appear to be in trouble.

The explosions which followed

Freak Gust Of Wind Is Blamed

Parents Unaware

Mr. and Mrs. Caswell at Field, Didn't Know of Crash

New York, May 31 (AP)—Relatives and friends sought today to complete identification of 40 persons killed in the holiday weekend crash of a DC-4 airliner near La Guardia Field, which United Air Lines said probably was caused by a freak gust of wind "of almost unbelievable suddenness."

One Ulster county resident, Miss Audrey M. Caswell, 18, of Wallkill, was included on the list of those who lost their lives.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Caswell of Bona Ventura avenue, who were at the field to bid her farewell as she left for Cleveland.

Miss Caswell intended to meet her fiance, Charles Wagner, an air corps soldier, stationed at Stewart Field, near Newburgh, whose home is at Medina, Ohio.

Three weeks ago, Miss Caswell took a position as a clerk in a Newburgh Insurance office. She was a graduate of the Spencerian Business College of that city and of Wallkill High School.

Besides her parents, survivors are two brothers, Blair and Clifford, Jr., and a sister, Miss Iris Caswell, all of Wallkill.

Unaware of Tragedy

At the time of tragedy, Mr. and Mrs. Caswell were still on the field, after saying farewell, but did not know of their daughter's death until they returned home and received a telegram.

The other eight persons on the plane, which crashed and burned before a takeoff from Cleveland Thursday night, remained in hospitals, five of them in critical condition.

J. A. Herlihy, vice-president of operations for United Air Lines, said last night in a statement that the plane which crashed was the plane when it failed to lift.

A preliminary Civil Aeronautics Board report also said the pilot attempted to stop the plane, whose crash was the nation's worst commercial airline disaster until last night's crash in Maryland which took 53 lives.

Wind Shift Blamed

"A study of weather conditions prevailed at the time," Herlihy said, "indicates that the probable cause of the accident was a wind shift of almost unbelievable suddenness."

Herlihy said the direction of the takeoff—being attempted by the New York area had thunderstorm clouds, rain and strong wind gusts—was away from a "squall."

Hungarian Elections Now
Will Be Held in September

Budapest, May 31 (AP)—The Hungarian cabinet announced today that Lajos Dinnyes, 46-year-old minister of war, had been chosen Premier to succeed Ferenc Nagy, who resigned two days ago while on vacation in Switzerland.

The cabinet also announced that Istvan Kertesz, recently named minister to Rome, had been appointed to replace Foreign Minister János Gyongyosi, whose pro-western views have been opposed by left-wing parties.

It said that new national elections would be held in September. Reports circulated meanwhile, that the Communists, having forced Nagy from office, had turned the pressure on President Zoltan Tildy in continuation of what some informants said was a determined drive to turn Hungary into a police state.

Appointment of Dinnyes to the premiership surprised parliamentary circles. Persons close to cabinet members said that up to this morning Imre Oltványi, former president of the National Bank, had been the Communist choice for the post and therefore the most likely candidate.

Wet Weather in April May Cause Fungi Damage

The wettest April and early May in recent history have created perfect conditions for the spread of fungi which may seriously mar the beauty of many shade trees later this season, Dr. Rush P. Marshall declared today. Prompt spraying, said Dr. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, is imperative. Fungi spread by wind and rain are probably already established on the unfolding leaves of apple, hawthorne, flowering crab and other trees subject to leaf injuries later in the season, he explained.

Cedar-apple rust, and the closely-related hawthorne-rust are common diseases. Orange-colored galls can now be seen on cedar trees. These discharge spores of the cedar-apple rust which infect hawthorne, apple, and mountain ash trees. During June the apple leaves develop yellow rust spots. Late in the season these spots form spores that infect cedar trees. The disease mars the beauty of the trees, and weakens them.

Anthraxose, a twig and leaf blight, attacks a wider group of trees, such as the sycamore, the oaks, particularly the white oak, as well as elms, maple, and ash. The spores of this fungus are carried by dashing rains from cankered areas of the bark to new leaves.

If wet weather continues, Dr. Marshall warns that the outbreak of anthraxose may be serious.

Repeated defoliation and die-back caused by this disease, may result in serious injury to the tree. He recommends immediate spraying with a fungicide, such as Bordeaux mixture, as the best method of curbing such fungus diseases.

Wet Weather in April May Cause Fungi Damage

The wettest April and early May in recent history have created perfect conditions for the spread of fungi which may seriously mar the beauty of many shade trees later this season, Dr. Rush P. Marshall declared today.

Prompt spraying, said Dr. Marshall, director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, is imperative. Fungi spread by wind and rain are probably already established on the unfolding leaves of apple, hawthorne, flowering crab and other trees subject to leaf injuries later in the season, he explained.

Cedar-apple rust, and the closely-related hawthorne rust, are common diseases. Orange-colored galls can now be seen on cedar trees. These discharge spores of the cedar-apple rust which infect hawthorne, apple, and mountain ash trees. During June the apple leaves develop yellow rust spots. Late in the season these spots form spores that infect cedar trees. The disease mars the beauty of the trees, and weakens them.

Anthraxnose, a twig and leaf blight, attacks a wider group of trees, such as the sycamore, the oaks, particularly the white oak, as well as elms, maple, and ash. The spores of this fungus are carried by dashing rains from cankered areas of the bark to new leaves.

If wet weather continues, Dr. Marshall warns that the outbreak of anthraxnose may be serious.

Repeated defoliation and die-back, caused by this disease, may result in serious injury to the tree. He recommends immediate spraying with a fungicide, such as Bordeaux mixture, as the best method of curbing such fungus diseases.

Two Drownings

In some manner the boat tipped throwing the two men into the water. Weeks struck out for the west bank and then turned back to the boat. Mr. Peck was able to swim to shore.

Just as Mr. Weeks reached the boat and grasped it he was seen to slip back into the water and disappear from sight.

Word was sent to Kingston and Sheriff George Smith was notified of the accident at 5:10 by the Kingston Fire Department and with Deputy Harry Keator, County Investigator Clayton W. Vredenburg and Identification Officer Leonard Belmonte went to the scene. Sheriff Smith and Deputy Keator immediately went out on the creek with grappling irons and on the first cast located the body which was brought to the surface. Prone methods as well as use of the inhalator was resorted to and the emergency crew from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation used a pulmotor for some time in an effort to revive Mr. Weeks but efforts were of no avail and Dr. Pauker of this city, who had been summoned, pronounced the man dead. The body was taken in charge by Coroner Ernest A. Kelly who gave as his verdict "accidental drowning."

Weeks is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Weeks, 197 Downs street and one brother Clarence, at home. He was a member of the Wicks Engine Company and attended the Kingston Avenue Methodist Church. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Monday from the Ernest A. Kelly Funeral Home, 111 West Chester street.

District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was notified and because of the circumstances did not authorize an autopsy.

Mr. Weeks was employed by the Universal Road Machinery Company of this city.

Crewmen from the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company emergency squad who had been at Kingston Point on the other drowning learned of the drowning at Glenelg Lake Park by radio as they were returning and rushed to the scene of the second drowning where they made every effort to revive the unfortunate man. Members of the crew who assisted were Harry Johnson, William MacElveen, Lefroy Weber and Clayton Bruhn.

The body was recovered practically at the spot where Mr. Weeks was observed to sink.

State Troopers at Lake Katrine barracks were notified also of the drowning and Troopers Metzger and Rock of the B.C.I. made an investigation.

Praise Youth
Officer James Burns and Earl Schoonmaker who were dispatched to the scene, praised the heroic efforts of the youth in diving in the water to find the boy. They said he made a noble dive before he finally grasped the boat and brought the Albany boy from the bottom.

Emergency crews from the fire department and Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company were called to the park shortly after 2 p. m. The factor was on its way back to the garage when it received notice of the other drowning in Glenelg.

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly, called for an official investigation, turned the body over to the W. N. Conner home and it was later taken in charge for funeral arrangements by the Gariand brothers funeral home of Albany.

The boy's parents were notified of the drowning shortly after the completion of the local police investigation.

"It is believed," he said, "that a freak gust of wind slightly in advance of the approaching squall-line was responsible for the accident. To my knowledge, this has never before caused a fatal accident to a plane of this type or, in fact, to any large transport plane."

The preliminary report by a Civil Aeronautics Board official said notice of "approaching winds shifts" had been given the pilot.

The airline statement, however, said the wind shift apparently hit the plane before reaching the airport control tower. The C.A.B. report was sent to Washington.

Herlihy quoted the pilot, Capt. Benton R. Baldwin of New York city, who was hospitalized, as saying he "could not get enough air speed to lift the plane off the runway prior to using up a considerable portion of the runway."

"Seeing that he was not going to be able to make a safe takeoff," Herlihy continued the quotation, "he commanded the first officer to cut all power while he applied full brakes and attempted to ground loop (turn sideways) the plane."

"His efforts were unsuccessful and the plane rolled through the boundary of the airport, across Grand Central Parkway, and came to rest in swampy ground just south of the airport, whereupon it immediately burst into flame."

Approximately the same details were given in the preliminary C.A.B. report to Washington, which was released here by George Gay, chief of the first region of the C.A.B.

According to reports of the crash, the pilot decided not to take-off when the four-engine plane, carrying 44 passengers and four crew members, had traveled 2,500 feet along the 3,500-foot runway.

To Hold Hearings

Hearings into the cause of the crash will be held here, Gay said. In addition to the C.A.B., the disaster was being investigated by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the New York City Police Department's Aviation Bureau.

The 40 dead included 38 passengers and two crew members.

Extraordinary emotional control was exhibited by relatives and friends as they identified the dead at the morgue of Queens General Hospital in Jamaica. Some came from distant cities, and were aided by police and three assistant medical examiners.

Witnesses said only two of some 100 who passed through the morgue burst into uncontrollable tears.

Jewelry and other personal items were assembled with data to aid in identification of the bodies. Otherwise, the task would have been virtually impossible because most of the bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Thirty-eight persons perished in the flames, and the death toll rose to 39 when Theodore A. Alexay, 27, Yonkers, N. Y., chemist, died in a hospital yesterday.

Alexay, a navy lieutenant in the war, had boarded the plane bound for Cleveland where he was to have been married today.

His fiancée, Ruth Santner, of Cleveland, flew here immediately after learning he was injured, and arrived two hours after he died.

The toll rose to 40 early today when a passenger, Charles J. Shannon, of 27-94 97th street, East Elmhurst, Queens, died at Queens General Hospital.

The C.A.B. timed the crash at 7:05 p. m. (E.S.T.).

The survivors escaped through emergency doors.

United Air Lines said the disaster had not caused any flight cancellations, and that reservations were running "higher than had been expected" before the crash.

The scene of the wreck was in the area known as Whitaker's Barrens, a short distance from the Susquehanna river.

Police, soldiers and sailors first had to hack paths through the underbrush to reach the plane. When they began widening the paths into roads so that the bodies could be brought out.

The catastrophe was witnessed from the air by two Civil Aeronautics Board officials who today were among those investigating the cause—its unknown.

The C.A.B. said it probably was the first time that a major airline crash has been witnessed by men who regulate the safety of air operations.

Dr. Robert C. Dodson, Cecil county medical examiner who labored through the night with navy corpsmen and civilian volunteers, said:

"Not a single one of the victims can be identified. They are all burned or mutilated beyond recognition."

Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of Maryland police, after visiting the wreck said:

"That was the worst scene I have ever witnessed as a police officer."

TEACHING IS DANGEROUS

California schools, by a bill recently introduced into the state legislature, would be forbidden to teach foreign affairs, political science or sociology before that time, they would lose all training in these subjects. This presumably would be highly satisfactory to the author of this bill, who would much prefer Californians to be utterly ignorant than to have any opinions with which he disagreed.

This is one of those cases where the authors of the bill do not realize its implications. How can a teacher teach American history, for instance, without touching foreign relations in 1776? Not to mention 1898, 1915 and 1945. The American Constitution involves political science and touches sociology. An arithmetic example involving rents or the cost of the transportation of food touches sociology, too. For sociology is the science of living in groups. Everyone but a hermit uses it every day. The matter recalls those cases where a mother says she doesn't see any sense in having her daughter study physics or chemistry, because "she'll never have to use those things." Yet every time the girl moves a chair or drives a car she uses the science of physics. Every time she cooks a meal she uses chemistry.

It's always a good idea to know what words mean before beginning to sling them around in ways where they have power to affect people's lives.

Moreover, the United States used to be known as the land of tolerance. Intolerant people are at variance with the American tradition. But plenty of education is part of that tradition. It is not sound knowledge which hurts an individual or his nation—it is the lack of it.

AMATEUR PLAYS

Of all avocations, none offers more real recreation for participants than good amateur theatricals. Summer is the blossoming time for many community theatres. These range all the way from backyard shows by vacationing school children to ambitious civic repertoire companies.

In Virginia the Newport News Operatic Society, formed 12 years ago, has reached the point where it can stage such works as Bizet's Carmen. The only out of town participant in a recent production was the tenor role of Don Jose, taken by an insurance man from Richmond. Carmen was sung by a young woman chiropractor, and Escamillo was a lieutenant-colonel from the air force. The eighty-person chorus included local druggists, artists, housewives, nurses, school teachers, draftsmen and business executives.

For all who take part in such performances, "the play's the thing" and everybody forgets himself in trying to make it a success. Out of mind for the time being are homekeeping routines by young mothers and business worries by shop keepers. They go back to their daily jobs refreshed from a bout with wholesome creative fun. The scene makers, the make-up crew and the costume committee have as good a time as the actors. And the audience marvels at heretofore undreamed of talent among its neighbors.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Commencement season has arrived. On high school and college platforms, from one end of the country to the other, orators will be holding forth before the young men and women about to be graduated. They will give the all manner of good advice. Many will talk down to the candidates. Others will exhort them on themes far removed from what is on the minds of the young people. In both cases, those for whom the exercises are planned will come away retaining very little of what the speaker said. They will not be able to repeat it next day. A year or two later most of them will have forgotten who the speaker was.

A rural high school in Perry, Iowa, has solved the problem. It is not having a commencement speaker this year. The graduates and their guests, instead, will watch a half-hour locally filmed motion picture of the senior class. At any rate the boys and girls

THE DOLLAR SHORTAGE

If the countries of Europe could settle down to work, the shortage of dollars would not be as serious as it is at this moment. Even if the ordinary means of exchange remain unavailable for some time, the human mind is capable of finding means to move goods and services from areas of production to areas of need. It is preferable and simpler to operate in private enterprise, utilizing currencies and credit balances. But it is possible to operate by barter if the goods are available, although this method of trade must produce a totalitarian state, as the one-seller, one-customer formula can only be operated by such a government.

The present crisis is not due to the shortage of dollars but to the scarcity of goods. The workers of the world are not producing; management functions under political conditions which make for inefficiency and confusion.

The British government set out heartily to re-establish British trade by socialism. The plan was to export 140 per cent of the 1938 level to be reached by the end of 1947. It is not likely that any such goal will be reached in current production levels. In fact, the use of both American and Canadian credits for consumer goods has weakened British industry, which should have employed every dollar of these credits for capital and durable goods in industrial replacements with the object of modernizing British productivity.

Now the British face a new problem. Heretofore, the country of the sterling bloc and Great Britain's dominion creditors, as well as Egypt and Iraq, could not, by agreement, convert blocked sterling into dollars. Even if British industry could not provide goods, countries involved in this arrangement, those countries can convert sterling into dollars, which means that they may use their sterling credit balances to make their purchases in the American market. Hence in New York the effects of this are already observable in the "shopping" of the representatives of many of those countries. They have come in here with all they have to turn currency into goods, because it is goods that they need.

The International Trade Organization, a body set up at Geneva to stabilize post-war foreign trade, must meet the problems created by the abundance of Soviet Russia in remaining outside our economic world, and the monopolistic practices of Empire Preference, which gives Great Britain a trade advantage in the British Commonwealth of Nations. ITO supports the concept of free and multilateral trading which both the Soviet and Empire Preference methods oppose. Many in Great Britain feel that if goods can be made available there for ample export, Empire Preference is not, at this stage, necessary. On the other hand, there is an American school of thought which holds that this country is exporting too much of its raw materials; that the future of the nation is being imperiled by excessive utilization of irreplaceable raw materials.

Sir Stafford Cripps once said: "Family grouping is still essential to us, not as an isolationist group but as a factor within the wider conception of world trade as a whole."

In other words, he would find a procedure that would make Empire Preference and free and multilateral trading possible. That is a bit of a task, but if Great Britain is to survive as a trading nation, it is one that must be accomplished.

The British often make the point that the tariff is a trade barrier, but they rarely point out to the fact that two of their principal competitors, Germany and Japan, are out of business and that Great Britain could have absorbed their markets had she produced the goods. In fact, in the present world shortage, any production is worth more than normal value by the operations of the law of demand and supply. Let us say, the Hull Treaties, as it is one of meeting inexorable demands.

Only work, only production, only hard labor for many hours a week can save Great Britain. Only the abandonment of socialism can extricate Great Britain from her difficulties, because obviously socialism is not producing goods.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

EATING DURING HOT WEATHER

Until recently, the idea of changing the diet with the seasons did not enter the minds of many except to the point of cutting down from cooked cereals to those ready to serve when warm weather arrived. Today many follow a special diet during each of the four seasons, which means more fruits and vegetables in their season, less meat during hot weather and preserved rather than fresh fruits. Generally speaking, this is all that is necessary for the average healthy individual.

It is about the four-fourths of all the food we eat is used to create heat and energy in the body, and we need less heat during warm or hot weather, cutting down on the total amount of food during spring and summer weather is good sense.

Fortunately, it is during the late spring and summer months that fresh fruits and vegetables are available, and help to "fill" the stomach and provide plenty of water. Yet they do not let us in food of fuel value at a time when the body needs less food. During the warm weather, the appetite craves fresh, cool, inviting foods and liquids. Less cooking in hot weather makes things easier for the housewife. Practically all fruits and vegetables are ripe and ready during July and August, which should make up the bulk of our meals. Food experts, then, suggest that we eat during hot days, rich foods, rich drinks and foods, which require much cooking. The total amount of food should be reduced from 20 to 25 per cent. To make up for reducing the meats, rich pastries and fats, an increased amount of eggs, milk, fruits and vegetables should be eaten during the hot months.

Eat more cool foods and foods that are easily digested such as egg dishes, jellies, frozen desserts, cold meats, cream or cottage cheeses, salads. By eating less during hot weather, the total amount of food or calories, and eating the food suggested above, there will be more pleasure in eating and more comfort after eating.

of that Iowa school assembled there for their sheepskins will be interested in the program—it is about themselves.

This sounds, however, more like class day than commencement. And the elders will hope that just as they receive their diplomas, some one in a position of respect or authority will give the students a brief but strong word of inspiration. Jollity and class feeling are fine. But the day of graduation is a grave one for most students. It marks transition from childhood into maturity. They will not remember nor heed a long, solemn, high-brow address. But they will treasure in their hearts one or two keen and intelligent statements. Young people are more serious than the elders sometimes realize. They appreciate going out of school on a note of high and important endeavor.

"Father May I Go Out to Swim?"

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Three of the best authorities have compared the authentic handwriting of Henry Wallace with the handwriting of the Woody Guru letters. All three of these men give their opinions that the actual and indisputable Wallace letters and the screwball documents were written by the same person. These experts are Clark Sellers and John L. Harris, both of Los Angeles, and George J. Lacey, of Houston, Tex. The examination of disputed documents is their profession. Their judgments are respected by the courts.

To relieve these men of any suspicion that they sought his consultation or wanted publicity, I will say they did not. The problem was presented to them and the initiative was mine, not the rs.

In fact, Mr. Sellers, the first of them to be consulted, gave his professional opinion only on condition that his name be not mentioned except in case of a contest. In that event he would come forward and defend his conclusion on that Wallace did write the letters. Charles Michelson, the head press agent of the Roosevelt party through 1944, described these letters as "silly." So they certainly are but that word does not fully describe this Gullian. If your little boy wrote such monkey business, you would take him to the doctor. But when you reflect that the writer of this confusion was in line for the presidency of the United States and with the war on our own country already committed, this stuff is terrifying.

Maybe Roosevelt didn't know the existence of this writing at the time that he handled party business and compelled the 1940 Democratic convention to nominate him when they would rather have torn him apart. They were so mad that they booed this strange fellow with the wet flapping lips and the Hitlerian bang over his eyes, like an arena full of wild animals. They wouldn't even let him make a speech of acceptance. But Roosevelt certainly did know the whole story by election day, 1940.

If these are the same letters that Charlie Mike saw and I think they are, then I say Charlie Mike went a long way for his client, the Democratic party, and took a terrible chance on the safety of the United States when he decided, without expert advice, that they were at least "doubtful authenticity." Roosevelt was even more terribly guilty because he knew he could die any moment and that Wallace would then take over with his wild, bewildered mysticism in oriental teachers and mysterious masters of unrevealed wisdom. Later, when he certainly knew the truth, Roosevelt fired Jesse Jones from the Department of Commerce which included control of the R.F.C., "the greatest bank in the world," and nominated Henry for the job. He may have figured that he was playing it safe because Congress certainly wouldn't confirm Henry until the R. F. C. was carefully removed from his reach, which is exactly what happened.

Sellers was asked to examine and compare these documents. He did it as a professional service and gave his opinion accordingly. Mr. Harris and Mr. Lacey were invited to consultation by Mr. Sellers. Mr. Harris came to the conclusion that Wallace wrote the Woody letters. Mr. Lacey's opinion was "somewhat cursory" but nevertheless he "reached the opinion that the questioned documents were all written by Wallace." On reconsideration, all three gave permission to me to name them in my authorities in the case.

Now, from a leading authority on Yoga, the oriental philosophy or religion which appears to have held Wallace's interest for a time, I have another expert opinion that Nicholas Konstantin Roerich, the Russian artist, who was Wallace's teacher, is not a Yoga scholar.

Roerich, this authority says, is a "pseudo-occultist" and his writings are a "refash of astrology, rosicrucianism and theosophical occultism."

However that may be, Henry Wallace did use the people's money to send a strange expedition to Mongolia and China in 1934, soon after he became secretary of agriculture, with Roerich in charge. Ostensibly this was an expedition to collect the seed of drought-resisting grasses. But stories in English language papers published in China indicated that the expedition had mysterious purposes and that old Roerich applied to the Fifteenth U. S. Infantry in Tien Tsin for rifles, revolvers and ammunition. He was turned down until the regimental command was overruled from Washington. Also, there was strife among the members of the group.

One of the screwball letters mentions a crystal soul behind living blue eyes above a cleft beard. I have never seen Roerich, who is called both a leader and a master, and sometimes, apparently, a ruler. I understand that he is now in India. But a photograph taken at the time that this mass-production picture-painter, who casually mentions more than 3,000 pictures, was chasing grass seed over China shows an old guy with squint eyes, possibly blue and a cleft, or two-legged beard of whiskers, somewhat in the style affected by old Admiral von Tirpitz of Germany and the standard political portrait on the walls of our chop suey joints.

BABSON on BUSINESS

TAX INCENTIVE

St. Louis, Mo., May 30—Many ask how present high prices can be reduced. My answer is that the best way to reduce high prices is by producing more goods at lower cost. But how can costs be lowered in the face of current high wage rates? To this I reply that production costs can be reduced by increasing the investment in labor-saving machinery. This will raise the real wages for all the people—not for just the strongly organized union groups.

Lower Taxation the Key

America has heretofore outproduced the world with steadily falling prices by continually raising the amount of money per worker invested in labor-saving machinery. To keep up this progress we must have incentive: (1) To save and (2) To invest savings profitably. Unfortunately, our present system of taxation is not only destroying capital that has already been accumulated, but it is also preventing the gathering of new capital. This can only be in a declining standard of living for all.

As an example of the destruction of accumulated capital by taxation, I like to cite the story of the House of Morgan. When the elder J. P. Morgan died in 1913 he left more than $70 millions to his son. Thirty years later his son died and, after his death taxes were settled, he was able to pass on only $5 millions to his heirs. Such a destruction of capital may be good for the morals of the heirs, but it bodes ill for you and me. There is little incentive to invest more money and hire more workers under such conditions.

Common-Sense Taxation

Wiping out of capital by death taxes would not be so bad if our income taxes were not also damping up the flow of new capital into industry. The bulk of savings must come from those of sufficiently large incomes to create a reservoir of capital. Yet, today an executive with a fair salary has no urge to invest in a sound stock paying 5% because his net income from that stock is reduced by two-thirds through income taxes. All incentive has been destroyed.

The President has recently asked businessmen to lower prices so as to increase the volume of production. I believe the President should direct that same advice to Congress. Just as a business can sell a greater volume of products at a lower price, so can the nation expect a higher tax-rate if it can increase the national income. I believe the best way to increase the national income is by lowering taxes now. The stimulus to incentive will rise. Then a smaller percentage tax rate would produce a greater total federal revenue. Let the government take its own advice and lower the unit cost (i.e., taxes) of its selling price for its service. The resulting jump in total tax collections from a stimulated national income should soon balance the budget and leave enough to start a real job of debt retirement.

Home, a Warning

If senators and congressmen would only study history in greater detail, they would see at once how many nations have been brought to their knees by burdensome taxation. More empires have been destroyed by oppressive taxes than by enemy armies. Today's heavy burden on enterprise is continued will surely lead us along the road followed by Egypt, Rome, Spain, France, and now England—all sunk by taxes.

The New Deal tax policy is to soak the rich—to fleece the sheep that have the fewest votes. This may be considered "good politics," but it certainly is bad business. If Uncle Sam confiscated all incomes about $10,000 a year, the total amount of money taken in would pay less than half of the current annual expense of government! Of course, if that were done, there would not be any incomes above $10,000. That's what would happen to incentive. However, I warn you our present tax course is less spectacular than such outright confiscation. But it is no less certain in the long run.

No Plea for Wealthy

When writing the above, I am not interested in saving money for taxpayers. That is purely secondary. The less money my heirs inherit, the better off they may be. I am interested solely in the future of U. S. voters, who sincerely hope that every senator and congressman feels the same way.

If some of those motor splashes could hear what their victims think of them, their cars would sizzle and fall off. Decent motorists drive with particular care through puddles of water when there are pedestrians nearby.

What Is Fame?

A favorite story is told of Enrico Caruso, the great singer. "No man is as well known as he is," said Caruso. "I was motoring on Long Island recently and my car broke down, so I entered a farmhouse to get warm. The farmer and I chatted, and when he asked my name I told him. 'Caruso,' he exclaimed, throwing up his hand. 'Robinson Caruso, the great traveler! Little did I ever expect to see a man like you in this humble kitchen, sir!'" (Elizabeth Ann Scheld, in Tracks (Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Magazine)).

Nothing is more estimable than a physician who, having studied nature from his youth, knows the properties of the human body, the diseases which assail it, the remedies which benefit it, exercises his art with caution, and pays equal attention to the rich and poor—Voltaire.

It may chance to be more profitable, when a man holds high office, to be able and willing to make use of expert persons than to be expert himself.

Hostess—I sometimes wonder if there is anything vainer than you authors about the things you write. Author—There is, madam; our efforts to sell them.

Doctor—I have to report, sir, that you are the father of triplets. Politician—Impossible! I'll demand a recount.

There is no answer to this question: "How do you think I would look in slacks?"

Automobiles do not run down nearly so many people as gossip does.

One that has much sense has a deal of knowledge.

The bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed.

"Gerald, dearest," she said, "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is."

Dodgers Beat Bloomingdale, 14-10; Lose 7-9

Miscues Lead to First Defeat on Local Diamond

The Kingston Dodgers retained their lead in the North Atlantic League today, following an even split in a doubleheader against the last place Bloomingdale Troopers.

Kingston won the afternoon game 14 to 10 in Bloomingdale, but dropped last night's arduous affair at municipal stadium 9 to 7 before 1,000 fans, the largest turnout of the season.

Three unearned runs in the eighth enabled the Troopers to salvage the arduous contest and gain an even break for the day.

Ray Cutter, working with only two days' rest, was the loser.

Alton Gilbert went the route in the afternoon albeit he was slugged for 14 hits.

Last night's defeat was the first setback for the Dodgers at municipal stadium in seven engagements.

They had previously won six and tied one.

Bloomingdale is her for a night game at 8:30 tonight.

Rough Day for Myers

If Dave Myers, Kingston's brilliant young shortstop has packed his bag and set out for the peace and serenity of the Catskill mountains, just to forget it all, his move is justified.

Myers had one of those days experienced by all shortstops sooner or later and committed six errors, four in Bloomingdale and a pair of costly ones before the home crowd.

The Dodgers' chief consolation in last night's setback was the robust clouting of Walt Kowalski, newly acquired third sacker, who put the wood to two terrific smashes and hit the ball hard on three other occasions.

Kowalski Clouts Homer

Kowalski, who played with Olean in the Pony League last season, figures to be one of the key men in Manager George Scherger's long-ball plans.

Wiley Williams, who had made an impressive debut in the third round, was shelved with a leg injury and Rudy Antonetz shifted from catcher to first.

Bill Lane, of Windham, pulled a charley horse in Bloomingdale and sat out the dance.

Kowalski rilled a tremendous triple to right center to drive in two runs in the third and the next time at bat sliced a line drive between center and right for a round tripper.

In the first inning he sent centerfielder Leonard back a country mile for his blast and the fourth time up almost tore the leg of pitcher Breyse with a hot shot to the box.

Williams Homers

The afternoon game in Bloomingdale was featured by the lacy batting of Jim Williams, who has been subbing for Manager Scherger at second base.

Kolarick-Ponticello Re-Match on June 12

Tony Ponticello of Gloversville and George Kolarick of Cleveland, who were hooked up in a rousing semi-final bout at the municipal auditorium Thursday night, when Ponticello suffered a cut in his scalp, have been re-matched for one of the feature bouts on the B'nai B'rith boxing card on Thursday, June 12.

Further details will be announced later.

Kingston loaded the sacks. The inning ended when second baseman McKenzie reeled to short center for Corigan's bid for a Texas Leagueer. It was one of the stand-out plays of the night.

Bloomingdale tied the score at 6-6 with two runs in the seventh and only a sparkling catch by Orlanum of Prince's long fly prevented further damage.

Percentage baseball backfired on Manager Scherger in the eighth. Scherger bounced a single off Myers' glove but was forced at second on Breyse's attempted sacrifice. McKenzie was safe on the first two Myers' bobbles. Prince popped to first for an automatic out. Cutter, who was having difficulty with his control, walked DeGraw to load the bases and with the left-handed Szwajkowski at the plate, Scherger called in a sacrifice bunt.

Instead of retiring the dangerous Szwajkowski, Braun walked him on four straight pitches, forcing in a run. Two more runs scored when Myers first booted Leonard's grounder and then threw wide of first.

Rally Fizzles

A glorious rally appeared imminent in Kingston's half when Corigan singled and Braun and Kerr drew wild pitches to load the bases. Bloomingdale brought in Long, a hard throwing right hander, who got Rosa on a long fly to center, Corigan scoring, and then retired Kowalski on a loft to center and Antonetz on a strikeout. That was the end of Kingston's hopes. Jim Williams doubled to open the ninth but the next three batters were easy victims.

Kingston won the afternoon game 14 to 10 in Bloomingdale, but dropped last night's arclight affair at municipal stadium 9 to 7 before 1,000 fans, the largest turnout of the season.

Three unearned runs in the eighth enabled the Troopers to salvage the arclight contest and gain an even break for the day. Ray Cutter, working with only two days' rest, was the loser. Alton Gilbert went the route in the afternoon albeit he was slugged for 14 hits.

Last night's defeat was the first setback for the Dodgers at municipal stadium in seven engagements. They had previously won six and tied one.

Bloomingdale is her for a night game at 8:30 tonight.

Rough Day for Myers

If Dave Myers, Kingston's brilliant young shortstop has packed his bag and set out for the peace and serenity of the Catskill mountains just to forget it all, his move is justified. Myers had one of those days experienced by all shortstops sooner or later and committed six errors, four in Bloomingdale and a pair of costly ones before the home crowd.

The Dodgers' chief consolation in last night's setback was the robust clouting of Walt Kowalski, newly acquired third sacker, who put the wood to two terrific smashes and hit the ball hard on three other occasions.

Kowalski Clouts Homer

Kowalski, who played with Olean in the Pony League last season, figures to be one of the key men in Manager George Scherger's long-ball plans. Willey Williams, who had made an impressive debut earlier in the week was still shelved with a leg injury and Rudy Antonetz shifted from catching to first. Bud Lane, of Windham, pulled a charley horse in Bloomingdale and sat out the game.

Kowalski ruffed a tremendous triple to right center to drive in two runs in the third and the next time at bat sliced a line drive between center and right for a round tripper. In the first inning he sent centerfielder Leonard back a country mile for his blast and the fourth time up almost tore a leg off pitcher Breyse with a hot shot to the box.

Williams Homers

The afternoon game in Bloomingdale was featured by the lusty batting of Jim Williams, who has been subbing for Manager Scherger at second base. Williams clouted his first homer of the season and a triple. Lane Myers and Gilbert each had doubles, while Orlemann clouted a triple. Myers had three hits in five trips, with Rosa, Kowalski, Williams, Orlemann and Gilbert each getting two. The Bloomingdale stand-out was leadoff, McKenzie, who came up with four safeties, a double, triple and two singles. The Dodgers got off to a 4-0 lead in the second and then sent 13 men to the plate for a seven-run spurge in the fourth on an 11-1 margin. The Troopers reduced the margin to 12-6 in the sixth and threw a mild scare into the Dodger ranks with a four-run ninth inning.

No Extra Base Blows

Bloomingdale reached Ray Cutter and Ken Braun for 12 hits in the second game but didn't have a single extra base blow. The visitors scored three times in the third on singles by Schrage, McKenzie, Sowatski, a couple of passes and an infield out. The Dodgers came right back with three in their half. Kerr doubled, scored on Rosa's single and Kowalski triple. An infield out scored Kowalski and

Kolarick-Ponticello Re-Match on June 12

Tony Ponticello of Gloversville and George Kolarick of Cleveland, who were hooked up in a rousing semi-final bout at the municipal auditorium Thursday night, when Ponticello suffered a cut in his scalp, have been re-matched for one of the feature bouts on the B'nai B'rith boxing card on Thursday, June 12. Further details will be announced later.

Kingston loaded the sacks. The inning ended when second baseman McKenzie raced to short center for Corrigan's bid for a Texas Leaguer. It was one of the stand-out plays of the night.

Bloomingdale tied the score at 6-6 with two runs in the seventh and only a sparkling catch by Orlemann of Princeps's long fly prevented further damage.

Percentage baseball backfired on Manager Scherger in the eighth. Schrage bounced a single off Myers' glove but was forced at second on Breyse's attempted sacrifice. McKenzie was safe on the first two Myers' bobbles. Principle popped to first for an automatic out. Cutter, who was having difficulty with his control, walked DeGraw to load the bases and then the left-handed Sowatski at the plate. Scherger called in a southpaw, Ken Braun.

Instead of retiring the dangerous Sowatski, Braun walked him on four straight pitches, forcing in a run. Two more runs scored when Myers first booted Leonard's grinder and then threw wide of first.

Rally Fizzles

A glorious rally appeared imminent in Kingston's half when Corrigan singled and Braun and Kerr drew walks to load the bases. Bloomingdale brought in Long, a hard throwing right hander, who got Rosa on a long fly to center, Corrigan scoring.

And then retired Kowalski on a loft to center and Antonetz on a strikeout. That was the end of Kingston's hopes. Jim Williams doubled to open the ninth but the next three batters were easy victims.

Woodstock Riders Prepare for Horse Show

Prizes Are Given For Horse Show at Lake Hill June 8

Woodstock, May 31—Members of the Woodstock Riding Club show committee recently spent a busy afternoon classifying and examining prizes to be awarded at the organization's forthcoming Horse Show, June 8.

Mrs. Edmond Good, show committee chairman, Miss Winsley Muller, and Mrs. Jerry Jeronick were confronted with a difficult task when they strove to designate which of the many prizes should be used for first, second and third awards, when the Woodstock Riding Club holds its first show at the Lake Hill arena.

Many attractive and useful articles were on hand and it was finally decided that it was a toss up as to which should be chosen first prize.

The club has purchased ribbons to be awarded to the contestants but the prizes have been donated by friends of the organization. Mrs. Good made the following statement: "I am sure that I speak for the entire membership of the Woodstock Riding Club when I say that we are overwhelmed with surprise and gratitude at the generosity of those who have donated these beautiful prizes. They may be sure that the ones who win them will be more than pleased."

Mrs. Good named the following list of donors: C. H. Hummer, Jr., Kingston; Simmons Electric Shop, Woodstock; Calico Stock and Guest Ranch, Lake Hill; Safford and Scudder, Kingston; Peggy's Beauty Shop, Woodstock; Geiser's Gift Shop, Woodstock; G. A. Schneider, Kingston; The Little Shop, Woodstock; Pini's Garage, Woodstock; Kingston Horse Market, Kingston; Cousin's Home Appliance, Woodstock; L. C. Dixon & Son, Kingston; Charles Kinkade, in "Green Pastures". The first of these instruction periods was held Wednesday evening when a small number of members were present. The coaching which will be given every evening, weather permitting, is designed to acquaint riders with the procedure which will be followed during the various events of the Horse Show. Though the time available is short, it is believed that many of the younger members will gain a good deal of self-confidence in these sessions.

Woodstock, May 31—Members of the Woodstock Riding Club show committee recently spent a busy afternoon classifying and examining prizes to be awarded at the organization's forthcoming Horse Show, June 8.

Mrs. Edmond Good, show committee chairman, Miss Windley Muller and Mrs. Jerry Jeronimek were confronted with a difficult task when they strove to designate which of the many prizes should be used for first, second and third awards, when the Woodstock Riding Club holds its first show at the Lake Hill arena.

Many attractive and useful articles were on hand and it was finally decided that it was a toss up as to which should be chosen first prize.

The club has purchased ribbons to be awarded to the contestants but the prizes have been donated by friends of the organization. Mrs. Good made the following statement: "I am sure that I speak for the entire membership of the Woodstock Riding Club when I say that we are overwhelmed with surprise and gratitude at the generosity of those who have donated these beautiful prizes. They may be sure that the ones who win them will be most pleased."

Mrs. Good named the following list of donors: G. H. Hummer, Jr., Kingston; Simmons Electric Shop, Woodstock; Calico Stock and Guest Ranch, Lake Hill; Safford and Seidler, Kingston; Peggy's Beauty Shop, Woodstock; Geiser's Gift Shop, Woodstock; C. A. Schneider, Kingston; The Little Shop, Woodstock; Pini's Garage, Woodstock; Kingston Horse Market, Kingston; Cousin's Home Appliance, Woodstock; L. C. Dixon & Son, Kingston; Charles Kinkade,
